Christmas Shoebox Appeal

Tr. Shandy

Dear Families,

We would like to set our Shoebox Appeal for CoRSU and Children's Ward of Hospice Uganda gift goal to 200 gifts. This way we accommodate all child patients at both hospitals, without leaving anyone out. Being that Ambrosoli has a total of 260 students enrolled in school this year, this shouldn't be such a challenge. However, with the holidays approaching, we understand that everyone is very busy. So please take some time to find a shoebox in your home, collect some nice items for a particular gender and age group, fill it, wrap it, label it, and then place on the gift table at the back of the Mezzanine. You don't have to spend much on this gift. It's something very simple that will really touch a child's heart this holiday season.

We will have a chart next to the gift table in the Mezzanine for you and your child/children to watch as we progress towards reaching our goal. Let's work together as an Ambrosoli team, to achieve our goal of collecting 200 shoebox gifts for boys and girls, ages 3 – 18.

We need all the CoRSU shoeboxes in by the 7th of December. For Hospice Uganda we need them before the 29th of November.

If you have any empty shoe boxes please bring them in so we can give them out to other parents.

Message from the Head of School

Resilience, Respect, Cooperation, Adaptability, Morality, Communication, Thoughtfulness ( and we have added one of our own) Creativity.

The personal learning goals that you see displayed around school are taken from the International Primary Curriculum. Along with the school's guiding statements they set out what we, as a school, believe and what we want our students to know, to be able to do and to understand.

In a world where the future is uncertain many schools are scrambling to keep up with the pace of change in order to prepare students for a future far different from our own. Teaching knowledge has been at the core of curricula for hundreds of years but now, with knowledge available in so many different ways and with such rapid growth in knowledge, schools are looking towards a more skills based curriculum in order to prepare our students for the world of work.

The Personal Learning Goals at Ambrosoli are not, then, an add on to our curriculum but an integral part of helping our young people to develop the skills that they will need for the future e.g. resilience, creativity, thoughtfulness.

Please help us to develop these qualities in your child/ren by discussing and modelling these qualities in your day to day lives so that they can, in adulthood, achieve their ambitions whatever they may be!

When we look toward 2020, the predictable, formulated and analytical world we've known and operated in for so long is changing. In order to survive and hopefully thrive, we must design for adaptability. And this requires different skills. For example, being able to integrate seemingly unrelated things is a skill, as is using empathy to design solutions that can adapt to different user needs, or using systems thinking to understand how to create shared value. Some people call these examples of right-brain thinking or design thinking. Others call them creative skills. I call them survival skills. But no matter what we call them, we all need to build our competency in these areas to create more adaptability for our business. David Butler - Coca Cola's VP of Innovation

"I look for people who like to work hard, have fun and do it with a positive attitude. I think those are important attributes to success," says Kameron Swinton, a Microsoft talent sourcer. "I'm also looking for people who have been high achievers, and that's not limited to their profession. "Were you a chess master or a championship-winning tennis player?" he asks. "Tell me about it. Not only does it make for a great story but it speaks to your dedication, hard work and perseverance."

Agile is not currently one of our learning goals - maybe it should be. You will enjoy watching the link below if you have time.
